Deadline for outstanding Wage Returns 2008/2009

The Employees' Compensation Act, Act 30 of 1941 as amended, obliges every employer to submit a wage return to the Social Security Commission, showing the actual wages paid to the employees, before 31 March of the relevant financial year.

Some employers have failed to submit their wage returns for the period 1 March 2008 to 28 February 2009, by the due date on 31 March 2009. These employers are now afforded a second and last chance to submit their wage returns before 30 June 2009.

Employers whose wage returns are not received by this due date will be assessed on estimated wages, as from 01 July 2009 and these assessments shall be deemed final.

A 10% penalty will additionally be added to the assessment amount.
